SUMMARY

Why do some organizations sit on the leading edge of innovation while others sit on the sidelines? The secret isn't what they know – it's what they share. Innovation thrives when teams tear down the silos that create friction and make connection their competitive advantage.

This training offers an evidence-based look at how companies thrive as “silo breakers” – first, by understanding how silos form, then by taking the necessary steps to overcome them.

Learn relevant and research-based strategies that foster collaboration and information sharing. Master the mind-sets and methods that deepen connections to customers, partners, vendors, and open resources.

Packed with silo-breaking examples and strategies, this training will help leaders at all levels rally their entire team to deliver exceptional customer engagement and experience.

IMPACT
